

From the album, Character Appreciation (2007)

In My Arms

A song the band insists on playing
The notes keep ringing in my head
If you had known the way it all would go
It turned out just like I had said
The cars they pass me on the freeway
Driving fast as they can go
Just like you when you ran away from me
I guess there's something you should know
I don't mind your independence
I know it's just the way you are
And I don't need your fake forgiveness
But if the world comes crashing down on you
You can always fall in my arms
You're moving in the wrong direction
Or is my map just upside down
Either way I've said all I can say
And today might be the day you come around
I hope today you'll come around