

When I Pray

I wake up but before I grab a coffee cup I come to visit just to say hello

It's mostly casual as we talk a while together about the weather and the people that we know

Then I mention mother's surgery if you could just make sure that she doesn't feel a thing

And all is well with me as long as you are here with me that's really all I need to start my day

That's really all I need

Later on when the day is in full swing it's time to call a meeting with the boss

Good afternoon, Lord, I just thought that I'd check in; is there anything to do in my inbox

And did I mention how I love my life and how that I would never want to work for someone else

And by the way I appreciate the help you know there's no way I could do this by myself

And when I pray sometimes I don't know what to say I just sit a while and listen to your heart

And every now and then I sing a little song about how marvelous and wonderful you are

And in the evening right before I go to bed I come to you once more and say goodnight

This day you've given me has given me a chance to keep the faith and a chance to shine the light

And so before I close my eyes I want to tell you one more time just how much you mean to me

And so I'll see you in the morning unless you'd like to come and take me home while I'm asleep

Amen
